STYLES HELP IMPROVE POSTURE

"debutante slouch" adapted by women during the straight dress from 1916 to 1926 has left its stigma, says Helen Spaulding, specialist, University of Maine. "Unfortunately," she contends, "the dress of the day disguised carriage and ugly posture underneath. The dress of the day was long loose top and fluttering skirt. Repairing the damage then requires regular and persistent effort.
An incorrect posture and carriage have existed for a considerable time. There are two steps essential for correction. First one must learn the correct relation of the parts of the body in a normal position. Then regular and persistent effort.
The subject lies flat on the floor with the arms extended above the head and the chin pulled in toward the chest. The entire body relaxed as far as possible, then flexing the knees slightly, the hips are rolled forward by contracting the muscles and abdominal muscles are pulled in until the spine is flattened to the floor. The knees are then flattened while the position of the feet is maintained.
In order to maintain good posture, the stretched or shortened muscles must have exercises to contract them or to stretch them, and the chest must be taken regularly and persistently until the muscle is strong enough to do its work easily."

Letters regarding sick flocks are handled satisfactorily. Specimens may be sent for an accurate diagnosis.
Pick out of the flock several birds showing typical illness, one or more in the early stages, and at least one in the later stages of disease.
Send birds alive, if possible. If birds decompose rapidly and are of little value for diagnosis.
Send the entire bird—do not try to cut out the diseased parts.
Send specimens by express, prepaid, to Dr. J. P. Witter, Poultry Department, College of Agriculture, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Always send a letter with the specimens, describing the condition as fully as you can, including approximate age of the flock and the number affected.
Give your name and address. Mail and specimens must arrive at the University before noon Saturday.

Line with past practice, no charge is made at present. In the event the number of calls for this service becomes too numerous, it may be necessary at some future time to make charge covering the cost.

COMMENTS ON BRITISH APPLE MARKET

(An interview with Mr. Mulvaney, British Vice-Consul in Portland, by W. S. Rowe, Cumberland County Agent.)
According to the latest reports from England, there is a good demand for Maine apples at the present time. McIntosh, Delicious and Wealthy and Baldwin are the varieties wanted at present. Greenings are not wanted before November 15. Starks and Ben Davis, January 1. Grades U. S. Fancy and U. S. Fancy No. 1.

The British certificate is required up to November 15. After that date, no certificate is required.
Apples to be inspected at the farm by the state inspector.

Prices reported as of September 21. N. B. Gravenstein crates, $1.44 to $1.71; N. B. Wealthy crates, 1.92 to 2.10; N. B. McIntosh crates, 2.10 to 2.27.
Shipment in barrels is recommended. However, they will take boxes or crates but the latter must be strapped and this is usually done in Boston at a charge of ten cents per crate. All shipments are being sent out from Boston, special trucking rates have been secured to Boston from points at New Gloucester and Standish at 35 cents per barrel.

According to available information there is a gross charge of $2.62 per barrel. This covers the present rate of exchange, trucking to Boston, ocean rates, ten per cent tariff, wharfage, charge of auctioneer's fee, etc.

Growers are urged to ship most of their fruit prior to October 24 for on that date the first apple steamer sails. The following are the dates of sailing from Boston: Laconic, Oct. 1; George, Oct. 15; Titanic, Oct. 22; Ninian, Oct. 24; Laconic, Oct. 29.

As to the contemplated new tariff of $1.16 per barrel, Mr. Mulvaney says that it has not been ratified and he doubts very much if it will be.
McIntosh in barrels brought, $6.33 in Liverpool September 20, 2.52. A net of $4.31.

Says John Steele, Dixfield, "I certainly am glad I joined your Dairy Record Club. I have been very interested in looking over the production records and costs. It is the only way of knowing just what each cow is doing for me."

Empire Dairy Ration

Empire Dairy Ration differs from any dairy feed now on the market.

It is a great big bulky bag, containing nothing but pure ingredients of the best quality obtainable.

It contains no screening, oat clippings, or other so called by-products.

The ingredients are ground corn, malt grains, cottonseed meal, soybean, oil meal, bran, corn gluten feed, ground oats, molasses, salt and minerals.

When you buy Wayne or Amero Feeds you get the benefit of low prices made possible by the Allied Mills' great tonnage and buying power.

TWO-MINUTE SERMON

by REV. GEORGE H. HENRY

ARE YOU A CHRISTIAN?

I put this question to a man the other day and he said: "That is a hard question to answer. I am a church member, but—" After a long pause he continued: "I don't attend church very often and I suppose most people who know me have forgotten my name is on the church book. As a Christian I'm afraid I'm a pretty good slacker." I said to that chap: "You are a man after mine own heart. No one would come across with an open confession like that if he was not sincere at heart. You are too good a man to lose. I am going to depend on you to get busy and help me put the church in our town on the map." Today everyone in town knows that man is a Christian. He proves it daily by acts of kindness and words of cheer, and on Sunday he goes up to the House of the Lord and expresses himself in song. There are too many church members such as he was; too few such as he is.

STATEWIDE DRIVE FOR MORE EFFICIENT KITCHENS

Rural housewives in general and husbands in particular are being invited to attend the county kitchen meetings in their respective counties scheduled for this month and next, when a state wide Kitchen Improvement Contest will be launched.

This contest is sponsored by the Maine Farm Bureau Federation and is to be carried in 12 counties in the state. "Doing your best with what you have" or "Making the most improvements at the least expense" is the spirit back of the contest.

Husbands can help their wives to win by lending their assistance with hammer, saw, and paint brush.

Complete conditions of the contest will be explained at the county meetings and the prizes to be offered will be announced.

The state home management specialist, Edna M. Cobb, will attend each one of these meetings with the county extension agents and give a brief talk on "Convenient Kitchens."

The schedule of the meetings, which are to be held evenings gives the Oxford County date as November 2d.
